Adventures In Love and Culture: ONCEABILITY

Mark Bishop (Bronze Eye) lives in San Francisco & makes sounds on a circa-Y2K Toshiba laptop, shareware, field recordings, & whatever else is handy. He has released material primarily through the Onyudo netlabel with occasional dalliances elsewhere.

LD Beghtol is a displaced person currently living in New York. Over the past two decades, he has made a landfill's worth of music, none of which is autobiographical (except for the bits that are).

At Silber we're pretty excited about Adventures In Love and Culture: ONCEABILITY because it is conceptually pretty much everything we're all about, especially with the 5in5 series. Two artists living a couple thousand miles away from each other who've never met in person with very different approaches to music meet through a release on Silber (LD's 5in5 from last year - The Just-World Phenomenon) & end up working on a release on Silber. Pushing each other out of their comfort zones to make something neither would do alone. Electronics & chaos from Bronze Eye & crafted poetic lyrical precision from LD. A soundtrack to a dream where two worlds collide like a medieval minstrel busking on a space station to earn his fare back home.
